

Large DC Plan Selection Study & Simulator Factors Influencing Recordkeeper Selection

BOSTON RESEARCH TECHNOLOGIES

This “first of its kind” innovative report identifies the relative importance and tradeoffs of the key factors plan sponsors consider in the recordkeeper selection process. Used in the proposal process and/or conjunction with win/loss results, this study provides a powerful basis for influencing sales outcomes as well as resource allocation related to product development and sales training.

This program includes an interactive simulator that enables recordkeepers to be more proactive in assessing their competitive advantages and weakness and accordingly shape their sales effort. The report includes a ranking of Recordkeepers across three selection steps; (1) RFP process inclusion (b) Finalist process selection (c) Winner selection. Utilizing an advanced analytical framework, it identifies the strength/weight of each of 32 key features/inputs in influencing selection across each of the three steps above.
